2324	There are unique circumstances to the questions, and just as unique an
25	opportunity for different responses to the same question.

16	Rig Idea 1: THE EOS us the Flevator
26	Big Idea 1: THE EOS vs. the Elevator
27	EOS is different than an Elevator Speech simply because an elevator speech only
28 29	creates interest. An EOS is designed to weed out those who you don't want to do business and focus on those you do.

69	Big Idea 4: Why This Way?
70	The purpose of this exercise is to fully understand the impact you have with a
71	prospective client. If you break down the question above, it is set up to provide
72	an answer that will fail you It starts with "what." If you believe what Simon
73	Sinek says, then "Start with WHY."
74	Think about the opportunity you have here. If you mastered the response to this
75	question, you could soon have a whole group of clients who believe what you
76	believe, like what you like, listen to your recommendations and TAKE THEM. BUT,
77	it all starts with WHY.

	Big Idea 5: What is the EOS?
	The Explanation of Services, EOS, consists of three components and must be memorized. I realize many of us believe we are past the exercise of r	nemorization, but it is so critical here. Memorizing the Explanation of Services
g	ives us the privilege to listen to the response, rather than focus on the delivery.
_	Big Idea 6: Sticks and Stones
,	You have heard the saying, sticks and stones may break my bones, but words can never hurt me. Well, these can. In fact, the words you use can kill the deal. While many people believe their response is unique, our industry has toxic words you should try to avoid:
_

	Big Idea 7: Take a Mic Check
I	recommend you record your response to the question, "What do you do for a living?" into a small recorder, set the recorder on the other side of the room, wall up to it and ask that question. Hit the play button. I would not be surprised if you walked away from YOURSELF! If this is the case, imagine how much potential (damage you are inflicting on you, your brand, your image, simply because you are not prepared.
	The statement should include parts of your job you believe would be appropriate for the potential client you are talking with. Passion in your voice when you share this statement will draw the prospective agent into your conversation.

- 1
	If done right, this approach creates the pathway from you to your audience.
	Based upon your assessment of the person asking the question, it is here you car include an example of what you have done in a similar situation. Here is where •	passion in your tone is critical. Enthusiasm can get you in the door, but
k	knowledge shared passionately will keep you there and finesse will make the sale

	Big Idea 9: In Your Own Words
1	Now in your own words, start writing down, in sentence form, an example of what you have done for clients or customers. Whether you helped make them more money, helped save them time, (AND are able to prove results,) help them achieve levels of success they never dreamt possible or some other success story it is here you are able to engage your prospect as to the benefits of working with

On a s	side note, I cannot emphasize enough, you really do have the keys to

Social setti	ng : (non-formal, plenty of time to respond, not hurried, share passion
The social s	etting allows you an opportunity to spend time with the prospect, read his/he	r body language, check their level of engagement, and get the prospect to	buy-in to your answer. It is here where you get to fully engage them on all three	of the effective parts to the EOS. Here you can be passionate and focus on wh	nat you wish to share.

239 240	Big Idea 15: Would You Refer YOU?
241 242 243	Referral Setting : (this person is already your client, and here you have an opportunity to build advocates.) THIS IS WHERE YOU SHOULD START, AND IS THE MOST DIFFICULT TO MASTER!
244245246247248249	The referral setting is the situation that is the most difficult to master. You have existing relationships. They already know you, like you, trust you, and do business with, BUT do they really know what you do? Here is your opportunity, with NO agenda in mind, you do NOT sell in this setting, and you simply share with your existing relationships your visionary statement.
250 251
252 253 254 255 256	Your EOS will be different for each of the above situations. AND your EOS will always be changing. It is usually not repeated the same way twice and must be memorized initially. Memorizing the script allows you to Listen to the response rather then to focus onthe delivery!
257
258 259
260 261 262 263	The explanation of services is always changing. It is time consuming. It will never be complete. As your business expands, your duties change, your direction changes, all of these are examples of potential reasons to re-master your explanation of services.
264 265	This is hard work, but with hard work comes great rewards. Start investing in yourself.

MISSION STATEMENT

In everything we do, we believe in challenging conventional wisdom in traditional wealth accumulation and wealth distribution strategies.

In everything we do, we believe in challenging the thinking of the Administration and it's strategies for taxing wealth in this country.

In everything we do, we believe in creating proven wealth strategies where cash flow generated from these strategies can be exempt from Federal Income taxes under the Internal Revenue Code.

How we do this is by using the current tax code.

How we do this is by using one of the most financially sound companies in the country today.

How we do this is by using a product specifically designed to provide insurance protection in the event of the insured's death, but also designed to be borrowed against where cash flow distributions are not current taxable income to the client.

What it is called is a Ten Pay Life .

Explanation of Services

To become a person of interest, where you can attract customers instead of chasing them, you have to have an interesting and precise Explanation of Services.

Most people when asked, "What do you do for a living?" will respond with a simple statement of fact. Those people when asked to listen to their own response would often fail to want to engage in further conversation.

To truly have an effective Explanation of Services, you must have three important parts.

Statement of fact:

Here your statement must be engaging, interesting, be unique and welcome further conversation. Be careful not to use words that may come across as toxic.

Example of what you do:

Here your example should be what you are most passionate about. Many examples will include things like, Time saved, Money saved, Money found, etc. Give your prospective client reason to want to engage in your services.

Question of Inclusion.

You end by asking if the client were to enjoy the same benefits identified in the example, would they want to engage in your services?

Background

(This area of discussion is the most critical part of the presentation. You are about to change the way your client feels about most everything they were taught to be true about money. You must share with your client the mental changes you have gone through to come up to your OWN conclusion to pursue this idea. By you being here today is a great example of the commitment you have in learning this strategy.)

Spending wealth as opposed to saving wealth
5 Parts of the Presentation
A: Introduction:
(In keeping with the discussion of where your thought process went, and the changes that were necessary for you to come to conclusion there may be more to wealth, you need to incorporate your thought process changes that you went through, the continuing education stance you are taking which every client expects you to embrace.)
How did you hear about this?
How did you hear about this? What was your first reaction?

B: Circle Talk

Accumulated Wealth

(With the recent ups and downs in the stock market, and many clients witnessing the huge swings in statement wealth, many retirees are most concerned with safety in wealth compared to aggressive accumulation strategies. Most of our new clients believe that reinvesting available assets are all that interest many financial advisors, while this is an important piece of the puzzle, it is just a piece of the puzzle.)

Most financial advisors talk about chasing returns, trying to turn one bag of money into two.

We incorporate minimizing losses. (Could amount to thousands of dollars)

Match investments with risk tolerances.

Lifestyle Wealth

(In discovering what most people dream about, what their goals are, the kind of lifestyle they want to achieve at retirement will be dictated to some extent, by the amount saved in their accumulated wealth. I believe most clients would like to retire with the same level of income they were experiencing prior to retirement.)

The more successful we become, we lean toward wants and move away from minimum needs.

Transferred Wealth

(By discovering the many areas of wealth that is transferred away from us on a daily basis, then can we then begin to take on the challenge of minimizing losses and help clients recapture thousands of dollars identified from inefficient wealth accumulation and distribution models and simple savings strategies.)

Either chase returns, minimize losses, or DO BOTH!

Identify inefficiencies in wealth accumulation strategies.

Use current tax code to accumulate wealth away from IRS taxation.

Two examples of transferred wealth:

Car:

- 1) PAY CASH
- 2) FINANCE
- 3) ?

How do you feel about DEBT?

Borrow $10,000

- 1) Interest
- 2) Terms

1988-1990 Highest bracket was 28% on all income over @$28,000

- 1) Do you believe last year was your best year ever? You will never make as much income?
- 2) Do you have a goal to retire on less money than you are making the day before you retired?
- 3) Do you believe personal income tax rates are going up, remaining where they are, or going down?

1941, Highest income tax bracket was 81% on income over $5,000,000

1944, Highest income tax bracket was 94% on income over $ 200,000

How did your company match fare in this example?

LIQUIDITY

CONTROL

Arrogance of answer to the question of "borrowing my money", "I will wait to see how much of your net worth I want to take, then make the interest rate I assess to your loan, RETROACTIVE to the date of borrowing. . . . ".

HOW MUCH OF YOUR RETIREMENT PLAN IS ACTUALLY YOURS?

2) Have no idea what the income tax rate will be when you retire>.

POSTPONE THE TAX..... AND POSTPONE THE TAX CALCULATION!

3) When making Qualified Retirement Plan contributions, you are not reducing your total income tax liability, you are simply lowering your current Income Tax payment due.

HOW MUCH DID YOU CONTRIBUTE?

WHAT WAS YOUR AVERAGE TAX BRACKET IN ALL THE YEARS YOU CONTIBUTED?

Three Types of Retirement Plans C

Tax Increasing

(By understanding that when Qualified Monies grow, so does the tax liability. The two things Qualified Accounts do is postpone the tax but potentially more harmful is the postponement of the tax liability. Remember the tax code changes from 1941 to 1944 as an example)

By doing nothing, we default to this position.

Tax Neutral

(By using the part of the current tax code that allows for like, equal distributions from IRA's without a penalty, be sure to review all the tax implications with the client and make sure these concepts fit with their needs. The IRC Section 72(t) is a complicated section and should be reviewed by tax professionals)

Contain the growth, withdrawing anticipated increases at a set rate.

Tax Reducing

(This part I call the "Spend Down" and involves paying the tax liabilities currently. If the client believes that income taxes may be going up, then this strategy would make sense. While many clients wish they would be in a lower tax bracket, once debt is retired, children are grown, many realize they are in their highest tax bracket approaching retirement.)

Simply GET OUT! Minimize government opportunity to control your liability.

(This Section discussed the ways taxes influence the net spendable income from different income sources. Many people gather or accumulate assets never realizing, or even address the issue, of an "exit" strategy. Here we see how taxes affect the

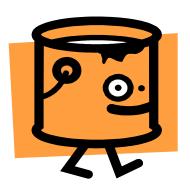

Cash Flow D

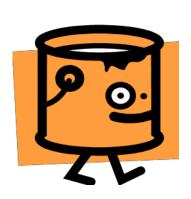

(distribution of different asset classes.)
